

British Association for Romantic Studies Day Conference with the support of the Humanities Research Centre, University of Warwick

*Commemorating Mary Robinson
23 September 2000
University of Warwick*

Keynote Speaker: Stuart Curran, University of Pennsylvania

RECEIVED
- 2 AUG 2000

Mary Robinson – poet, novelist, philosopher, feminist, actress, celebrity – died on 26 December 1800. This conference commemorates the 200th anniversary of her death; it is the first conference devoted solely to Robinson. The conference will discuss her poetry, novels, Memoirs, and her feminist tract Letter to the Women of England; topics include the maternal subject, poetic revision, fame, rhetorical strategies, theatrical displays, reputation, gender play, and liberty. The conference promises to be a full day of investigation into, discussion of, and education about a central figure in British Romanticism.

Fees will be £26 waged/£18 unwaged for BARS members, and £30 waged/£20 unwaged for non-BARS members, which includes morning and afternoon tea/coffee and lunch. Registration forms will be available in August.

For more information please contact Dr. Jacqueline Labbe, Dept. of English and Comparative Literary Studies, Univ. of Warwick, Coventry CV4 7AL; j.m.labbe@warwick.ac.uk.